

Square 1092 W

1501-1511 G Street, S.E. (1905, first row houses)<sup>1</sup>

These six flat-front row houses have concrete foundations; Flemish bond brick walls (with red and iron spot brick), two stories with three bays; front door with transom; five rectangular one-over-one double-hung windows with rough stone sills and lintels; cast iron steps with a grape-leaf pattern on the risers, a simple brick belt course below the windows; a metal garland over the second-story window; a spherical finial topping the firewall between row houses; and a flat tin roof.<sup>2</sup> The current appearance is the same except that the cast iron steps have been replaced at 1501, 1509 and 1511 G Street, the treads on the stairs at 1503 G Street have been replaced, and the windows at 1511 G Street have been altered.

714-720 Kentucky Avenue, S.E. and 721 16th Street, S.E., (1909)<sup>3</sup>

These five row houses have concrete foundations; Flemish bond brick walls, two stories with three bays; front door with transom; five rectangular one-over-one double-hung windows in front with flat-head lintels; a front porch extending over three bays with beige brick columns; a hip roof; a dentilated cornice; and a flat asphalt roof (original appearance). The end row house, 721 16th Street, has 15 windows. The current appearance is the same, except that one brick porch column was removed at 718 Kentucky Avenue and the brick columns at 720 Kentucky Avenue were replaced with black metal open-work columns.
